To the memory of the pioneers, men and women of a century ago who, with dauntless spirit, faced the hardships and overcame the obstacles incidental to the early development of the Eastern Townships, and to whom the Men of Today, their descendants, owe their present comforts and prosperity, this volume is dedicated.

PREFACE

The idea which prompted the undertaking resulting in this volume suggested only a book of biography, bringing together in a comprehensive volume brief sketches of men who today are carrying on the affairs of the Eastern Townships, not in public life alone, but in all the varied activities of this section of Canada. Similar books have been published dealing with the whole of Canada, but in such only comparatively small attention is given to any particular section. The biographical section of the volume which is here submitted is wholly Eastern Townships.

To this is naturally added a chapter dealing with the material position which the Eastern Townships holds in the Dominion—a position which is relatively important and offers opportunities which give promise of a still more prosperous future.

The publishers felt that the volume would be incomplete without an historical chapter dealing with the early settlement and development of the townships and especially as important material pertaining to the early history of the Eastern Townships has come to light in recent years. This volume seemed to offer an opportunity to preserve in permanent form these data, not found in earlier historical works.

Lastly, the inspiring record of Eastern Townships services in the great war called for a place in the present historical volume. No greater heroism in battle has been exhibited in this great struggle than that of Eastern Townships men in defending the bloody salient of Ypres or at Vimy Ridge and in the later struggle around Lens. No more devoted services have been rendered by the civilian population at home than by the women of the Eastern Townships in their various patriotic organizations. The chapter relating to the Eastern Townships' part in the great war is necessarily incomplete. The honor of recording the whole story will fall upon some future historian who will be able to write in the light of a completed event. The publishers believe, however, that the chapter devoted to the Eastern Townships and the war, incomplete as it is, will prove of interest not only now but more particularly in years to come. It is hoped that the volume which is herewith respectfully submitted will be found worthy of a place among the numerous volumes which have been devoted to one phase or another of Eastern Townships' history.

CONTENTS

Section I.—The Eastern Townships Today—An appreciation of the material prosperity of the Eastern Townships and the opportunities which this section of Canada offers.

Section II.—Historical Section—A condensed review of pioneer days and including many hitherto unpublished records.

Section III.—The Eastern Townships and the Great War—An unfinished account of the Eastern Townships' contribution to the cause of Liberty.

Section IV.—Biography—Sketches of some twelve hundred representative men of the Eastern Townships.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS OF TODAY

The Eastern Townships of Quebec is one of the most steadily prosperous sections of Canada and the reasons for this are not difficult to assign. In the first place, the Eastern Townships does not depend upon any one or any two industries for its prosperity. It is the most important agricultural section of the province, and farming is of that mixed character which ensures an annual result which is not assured where the one crop system prevails. It possesses great mining and lumbering industries, involving an annual output representing in value many million dollars. Then there are the many industrial towns with extensive manufactories, employing thousands of hands, busy communities in themselves and affording ready markets for the farming districts. Therefore, it may be asserted at the outset, in considering the Eastern Townships today, that these southern counties of Quebec are, in a commercial sense, one of the best balanced sections of Canada.

The census of 1911 showed the population of the Eastern Townships to be as follows:—

	Male	Female	Total
Brome	6,871	6,345	13,216
Compton	15,655	13,975	29,630
Drummond-Arthabaska	21,233	20,357	41,590
Megantic	16,439	14,875	31,314
Missisquoi	8,893	8,573	17,466
Richmond and Wolfe	20,230	19,261	39,491
Shefford	12,145	11,831	23,976
Sherbrooke	11,648	11,563	23,211
Stanstead	10,301	10,464	20,765
Totals	123,415	117,244	240,659

The Eastern Townships, in area, comprises 4,314,882 acres and statistics indicate that only about 2,000,000 acres are, or have ever been, under cultivation. This fact is one of the most regrettable that one has to consider in connection with the Eastern Townships. The rural population is far less than the soil of these counties would support. Agriculture is the basic industry of this section of Canada as it is of the whole Dominion and without a much larger agricultural population the full development of the Eastern Townships cannot be accomplished. Hundreds of farmers, with splendid estates, are "land poor." They have more acres than they can cultivate. A steady immigration to the rural sections is the Eastern Townships' greatest need.

The Eastern Townships has scores of thriving towns and villages and the permancy of their prosperity, except for the fact that it is inseparable from that of the agricultural districts, seems more assured than that of the farming communities, owing to the drift of population from the land to the urban centres.

The Eastern Townships communities of 500 population or over are:—

Sherbrooke	20,470	Thetford Mines	7,129
Granby	5,033	Victoriaville	4,477
Magog	4,193	Farnham	3,766

Among other progressive and active village communities are Frelighsburg, Dunham, Stanbridge East, Clarenceville, Philipsburg, Mansonville, Sweetsburg, West Shefford, Roxton Falls, Georgeville, Fitch Bay, Dixville, Barnston, Hatley, Way's Mills, Melbourne, L'Avenir, Compton, Gould, Bishop's Crossing, Leeds, Kinnear's Mills, etc.

Eastern Townships Agriculture

In the realm of agriculture, the Eastern Townships has won the title of "Garden of the Province," the picturesqueness of the rural sections and the productiveness of the soil combining to give to the farming sections of Southern Quebec an attractiveness surpassing that of perhaps any other part of the province.

It is here that the maple sugar industry reaches it greatest development with an annual production valued at no less than a million dollars. The fine water and excellent pasture lands have contributed to the success of the dairy industry, Eastern Townships butter and cheese having won an enviable reputation. Stock breeding, also, is receiving close attention from Eastern Townships farmers and the results are apparent in the splendid exhibits of thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep, and swine at Canada's Great Eastern Exhibition, Sherbrooke, and the various county fairs.

The statistical report for the whole province shows the following annual value of agricultural production in the province in 1914, namely, field crops, $99,279,000 ; domestic animals, $122,298,071 ; dairy products, $16,156,022. It is impossible to give exactly the Eastern Townships portion of these large sums, but it is undoubtedly considerably greater than its relative area would indicate.

However, with less than half the soil of the Eastern Townships under cultivation, the possibilities of the future are apparent. This development may be long delayed. Canada must gather to herself a great population before its density will approach that of England or of any of the older settled countries. Until there is a decided drift of the population to the land the full development of agriculture cannot take place. The stimulus of high prices for all agricultural products is present. This is offset to a great extent by the scarcity of farm labor. The hope of the immediate future lies in after-the-war immigration. If this section of Canada can attract sufficient rural population to solve the farm help problem and enable the full cultivation of lands at present cleared, and the gradual opening up of new fields, a splendid return, not surpassed in the wheat lands of the west, will be available.

Eastern Townships Manufactories

It is perhaps in the realm of the manufacturing industry that the greatest future expansion may be expected in the Eastern Townships with the exception, it is hoped, of agriculture.

A development of some fifty thousand horse power is already applied to the wheels of industry in this territory. Undeveloped power of at least equal quantity remains to be applied. Besides, the power lines of Shawinigan with their exhaustless current already penetrate this territory and vast prospective developments on the lower St. Francis will be available as required.

The industrial outlook in the Eastern Townships is bright. All conditions are favorable, power, labor, geographical location, and railway facilities. Where in Canada is there a section with a more attractive list of industrial centres, large and small, than is possessed by the Eastern Townships ?

The census of 1910 gave figures with regard to some of these towns as follows :—

	No. of Establishments	Capital Invested	Value of Products
Sherbrooke	39	$3,701,463	$3,934,510
Thetford Mines .	6	73,200	172,885
Coaticook	12	380,594	900,000
Farnham	4	226,102	145,070
Granby	15	4,437,474	3,910,548
L. Megantic	5	220,000	297,548
Magog	5	3,052,115	3,781,018
Richmond	3	75,500	116,302
Victoriaville	16	521,997	688,540
Waterloo	11	254,550	218,266
Windsor	4	2,237,352	989,500

To these may be added such industrial centres, (some of which have been largely developed since the Dominion census year) as East Angus, Bromptonville, Rock Island, Waterville, Danville, Cookshire, Bedford and many others all of which have their busy industrial establishments.

Since 1910, there has been a steady growth in industrial activity in the towns noted above. When the war broke out in August, 1914, it looked as though a serious industrial depression might be at hand. In no section of Canada, however, were manufacturers quicker to seize the opportunities offered for the manufacture of munitions than in the Eastern Townships. The iron and woollen industries turned over to national orders and a period of unprecedented industrial activity followed. In Sherbrooke city the development along this line has been remarkable, Sherbrooke at the close of 1916 being credited with the largest output of munitions of any city of its size in Canada and, indeed, the largest in all Canada with four or five exceptions.

When the storm of war has passed, Eastern Townships industries will answer the demands of peace and there is every reason to believe their position is secure in industrial Canada.

A great immigration is looked for and a period of development in Canada is predicted that will outrival that of the decade preceding the war. In the future development of the Dominion, the industries of the Eastern Townships may be depended upon to play their part.

Forest Industries

A century ago the forests which spread throughout the Eastern Townships were regarded as an enemy to be destroyed rather than as an asset to be preserved or marketed. And this was the natural condition of that day. Consequently, thousands of acres were cleared and the timber burned, the only saleable part, indeed, being the pearl ash product.

The forest industry of the Eastern Townships today is estimated at $6,000,000 annually, in lumber and pulp wood products.

Provincial statistics divide the forests of the province into five classes, as follows :

Private forests	6,000 acres
Forests leased as timber limits	44,500,000 acres
Forests on lots under location ticket	1,300,000 acres
Township forest reserves	200,000 acres
Forests not in timber limits	78,000,000 acres
Total	124,006,000 acres

The annual value of the forest products of the province is about $20,000,000 annually. Some of the most important pulp and paper mills of the Dominion are located within the Eastern Townships, such as those of the Canada Paper Company, at Windsor Mills, and of the Brompton Pulp & Paper Company, at East Angus and Bromptonville.

The continual depletion of the forests in the Eastern Townships is cause for some concern. Already, the flow of the streams has been considerably affected by the reduction of the forest lands, the moisture passing down the rivers in the spring freshets as a result rather than being retained and distributed in a more even flow. Water powers have suffered as a consequence. If the land from which timber is cut passed under cultivation the compensation would be considerable, but this is not always the tendency. These lands often remain in a more or less waste condition. Serious consideration must be given to the subject of forest conservation and even to reforestation, if the Eastern Townships is to preserve its forest wealth and the permanency of a great industry is to be ensured.

Eastern Townships Mining Industries

Eastern Townships fame has been enhanced by its great mining industries, particularly in the matter of asbestos and copper, while the gold and iron deposits have attracted a share of public attention. The Eastern Townships section of Quebec is the richest in the province in its mineral resources and these have been only partially explored and developed.

The production of asbestos reached its highest mark in 1913, the year before the war, when the value of the production was $13,119,811 and 9,925 workers were employed in the industry. All these mines are located within the Eastern Townships and represent about 85 p.c. of the world's supply. The copper production for the same year was $812,899.

In building materials such as lime, brick and granite the Eastern Townships is rich, the annual output of these three products amounting in value to over two million dollars.

The permancy of the great mining industry in the Eastern Townships would appear to be assured. The asbestos deposits show no signs of exhaustion. Many promising copper "mines" have not been explored beyond their surface showings, while there is convincing evidence of extensive deposits of gold and iron.

Some day, when the allurements of distant fields have passed, the Eastern capitalists, it may be hoped, will turn their attention to riches at their doors and apply themselves to the development of wealth that lies within the hills and mountains of the Eastern Townships.

A Goodly Heritage

Eastern Townships people have good reason to be well satisfied with their heritage. A healthful, invigorating climate and picturesque surroundings, splendid educational institutions, the steady extension of good roads, railway facilities such as can be found only in the most prosperous sections of Eastern Canada, rural mail that penetrates to the remotest districts—these are a few of the features which lend attractiveness to Eastern Townships life.

These counties of Southern Quebec, there is every reason to believe, will hold a relatively important place in the commercial and industrial life of Canada in the years to come. The great natural resources and the vigor of the inhabitants ensure this. After the war Canada will be looked to as the brightest land of promise within the Empire. Almost at the gateway of the Dominion, is the Eastern Townships of Quebec, a distinct territory possessing many special advantages. The men and women, assisted by the new comers who will join them, may be depended upon to uphold the honor of their section of Canada in the commercial activities of coming years as they are doing in the realm of patriotic endeavor during this period of world strife.

MAP OF EASTERN TOWNSHIPS 1812

On the opposite page is shown a reproduction of the Eastern Townships section of the map issued during the war of 1812-15 by the Provincial Government, protracted from Holland's large map with additions by Amos Lay. This is undoubtedly the most ancient existing map of the Eastern Townships, a well preserved copy being in the possession of Mr. G. H. St. Pierre, K.C., of Sherbrooke, to whom the publishers of this volume are indebted for the privilege of reproducing it.

It will be noted that the only settlements shown are St. Armand, Ryler, Mock, Lawrence, Willard, Lay's Mills, Austin Mills (now Magog) Kilbourne Mills, (now Rock Island), Pennoyer Mills, (near Waterville), Hyatt Mill, (now Sherbrooke), and Cushing. There was of course a scattered settlement throughout the townships, and no doubt a number of other small communities which are not shown.

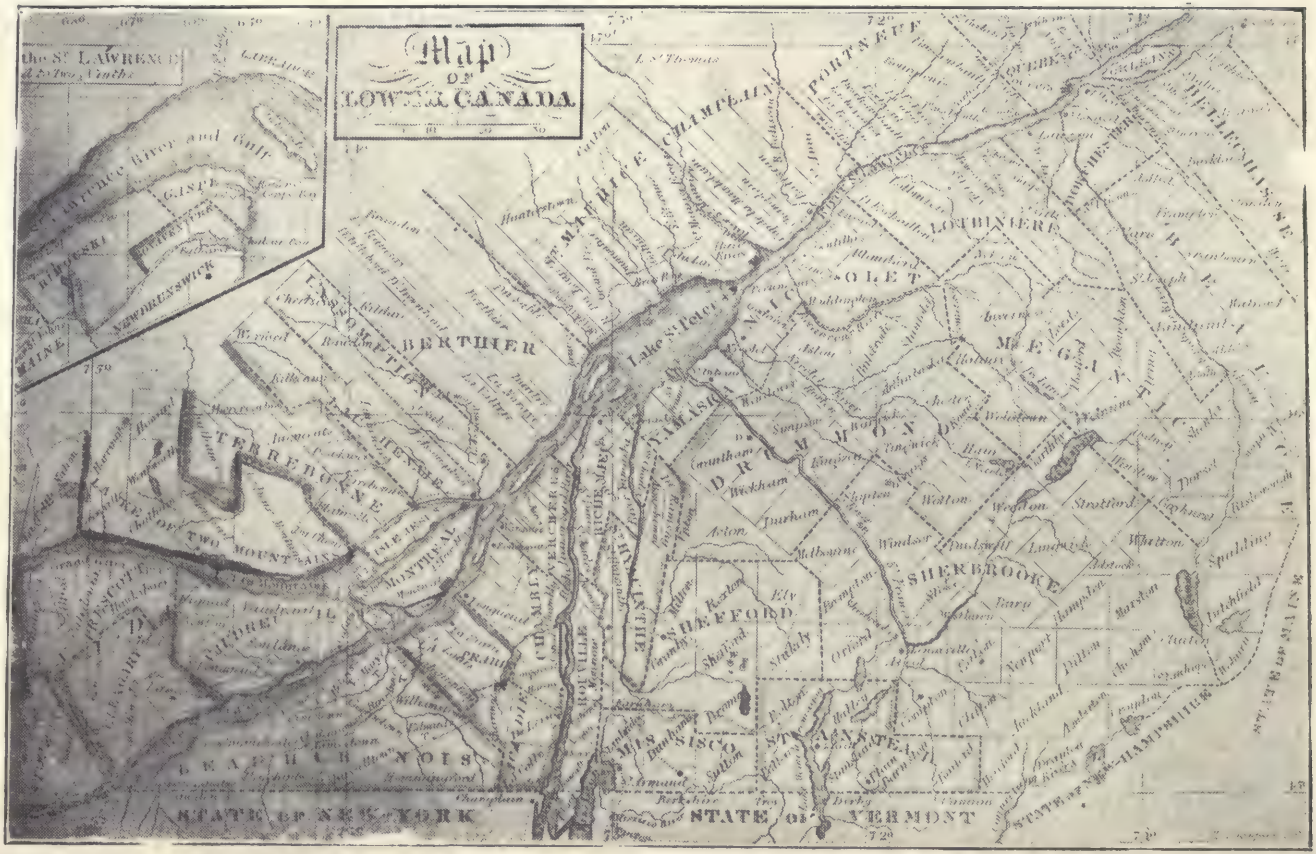
The townships are laid out practically the same as at present and these are not shown in the map as reproduced as practically no changes have taken place, excepting in some which have since been divided. It may be noted that Brome was originally spelled "Broome." The township of Cleveland has since been formed from a subdivision of Kingsey.

It is interesting to note that Missisquoi on the old map is spelled "Missiskuoi," and Tomifobia appears as "Tomefobi" and is the name applied to Lake Massawippi.

Apparently only one county subdivision had been established in the townships up to 1812, namely, that of Bedford, comprising the townships of Dunham, Stanbridge, Farnham, Noyan, and the seigniories of St. Armand, Sebrevois and Foucault. These latter appear to have been the only seignorial grants within the present boundaries of the Eastern Townships.

The map shows the Eastern Townships at that time to have been divided between the districts of Montreal, Richelieu, Three Rivers and Quebec.

The original map shows the outline of numerous roads, the main highways being one starting from Kilborne's Mill (Rock Island) and extending through the townships of Stanstead, Barnston, Hatley, Compton, Ascot, Eaton, Westbury, Stoke, Dudswell, Ham, Wolfestown, Ireland, Leeds and on to Quebec, and known as Governor Craig's Road. Another highway prominently shown is that starting from a point in the township of Clifton, passing through a corner of Compton township, through Ascot and Hyatt's Mill (Sherbrooke) thence along the west side of the St. Francis River at Cushing's Mills, and thence on down the river to the junction of the St. Francis and St. Lawrence rivers, whence travellers and commerce could proceed by boat to Three Rivers and Quebec or continue by highway along the south shore of the St. Lawrence. The map, also, indicates main highways along the Richelieu line from the international boundary to Fort William Henry where the Richelieu unites with the St. Lawrence and from Chambly down the St. Francis to its mouth. From the site of the present village of Stanstead Plain, begins the main road uniting with Craig's Road as described above. Roads, also, were laid out through Barnston and Compton, across Stanstead and Hatley townships to Austin Mill (Magog) and also, across Stanstead township, to the present site of Georgeville, thence by ferry across the lake and on through Bolton and Shefford, joining roads to Chambly and Montreal. One of the oldest roads marked on the old map is termed "Bailey's Path" and runs from the present site of Lennoxville, through Ascot, Eaton, Newport, Hampden, Adstock, Whitton and thence on to the Chaudiere River.



Eastern Townships in 1834

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The settlement of the Eastern Townships may properly be divided into four periods.

I. Immigration from the New England States, beginning about 1793, though a few families came before that date, and continuing for some twenty years.

II. Immigration from the Old Country by way of Quebec, beginning in 1814, following the Peninsular War and the first overthrow of Napoleon.

III. British Immigration in the 30's, largely from Scotland, promoted by the British American Land Company and other organizations.

IV. The gradual influx of French-Canadians from the parishes bordering on the townships and from other parts of the Province.

The Pioneer
From a model by G. W. Hill, the noted Eastern Townships Sculptor.

The real pioneers were the hardy men and women who came from the New England States. They penetrated an unknown and trackless wilderness, abounding in wild animals, and inhabited by Indians more or less friendly. Some came through a desire to live again under the British flag but the greater portion were attracted by the free lands available. The pioneers from the south settled in the border counties now known as Missisquoi, Brome, Stanstead and Compton. They penetrated north into Shefford and along the valley of the St. Francis into Dudswell, Ascot, Richmond, Melbourne, Kingsey, and other sections.

In 1814, an English immigration began, many of the newcomers being discharged soldiers who had fought in the Napoleonic Wars. Drummondville was founded from this source and Megantic County received its first settlers. Many of the new arrivals came through as far as Sherbrooke and joined with the settlers from the south.

In 1833 the organization of the British American Land Company took place and extensive land grants were secured by the company. With a view of improving its holdings, the company began to bring in settlers whom they located chiefly in the Eastern part of Compton County. The ill-fated Village of Victoria, about one and a half miles from the present village of Scotstown, was established in 1836, and these early settlers planted in the wilderness of Southern Quebec underwent many trying experiences. In 1838, the first Scotch settlers arrived in Lingwick from the Island of Lewis and for fifteen or twenty years there was a considerable immigration from this source.

The French-Canadian immigration began in the 30's but did not reach any great volume until the latter half of the century, following the construction of the Grand Trunk Railway and the development of town and village settlements. Many of the townships originally laid out on the English plan were never really settled by English immigrants, except a few families but have been almost entirely developed by the descendants of old France. This applies particularly to the townships comprising the county of Arthabaska and parts of the Counties of Wolfe, Drummond and Megantic. The French-Canadian is more truly a son of the soil today than is the English Canadian, and the burden of clearing waste land in the townships for the extension of the farming districts is falling almost entirely upon him. The English pioneers of a century ago battled valiantly with their task of preparing the soil for cultivation, a characteristic which their descendants seem not to have inherited.

Organization of the Townships

The survey and organization of the Eastern Townships began as early as 1793 and the tracts of land composing the several townships were in part embodied in grants made to individuals who in most cases comprised the first settlers.

The first step towards the erection of a township was the issue of a warrant of survey. These warrants for some of the earliest townships bear the following dates :

Dunham	1795	Sutton	1802
Potton	1797	Ely	1802
Bolton	1797	Stoke	1802
Brome	1797	Windsor	1802

Population in 1805

The townships comprising the present district of St. Francis, according to records in the archives at Ottawa, had a population in 1805 of 4,831 souls. A report by Joseph Bouchette, Surveyor General, bearing date, March 9th, 1805, and based on information given by Oliver Barker, of Compton, gives the population of the various townships as follows :

	Families	Males	Females	Total
Stanstead (1803)	246	707	643	1350

Census of 1831

The development of the townships proceeded steadily and the census of 1831 shows a substantial growth in population. The boundaries of the counties comprising the Eastern Townships were very different in 1831 from what they are now, the whole territory being included in the Counties of Stanstead, Sherbrooke, Shefford, Missisquoi, Drummond and Megantic. Some townships even at that date had very few inhabitants and no returns as to population were made. The census report for the Eastern Townships in the year referred to was as follows :

The above figures show the total population of the Eastern Townships in 1831 as far as recorded, to have been 38,131 as compared with 4831 in 1805.

Early Industry

The Eastern Townships pioneers lived a strenuous life. It was a continuous struggle for existence. The forests had to be cleared and the first preparation of the land for the crops involved heavy labor. The soil was rich and yielded bountiful crops of potatoes, corn and vegetables. There were, however, no markets available for such produce and ready cash for the purchase of such supplies as could not be produced was difficult to obtain. The ordinary provisions could be grown and the heavier garments were home spun but a certain amount of cash was necessary for the purchase of many requisites. Pot and pearl ashes were the first marketable products of the early inhabitants and the marketing was quite as strenuous an undertaking as the production. The available markets were Montreal, Three Rivers and Quebec and from ten to twenty days were required for the journey to and from these places. Ox teams were generally employed though from Sherbrooke the trip was often made by boat down the St. Francis.

A serious attempt was made to develop the hemp industry in the Eastern Townships and the writings of Major Jesse Pennoyer tell of the efforts made to secure Government aid. These undertakings appear to have begun in hope and ended in failure.

Saw mills and grist mills were established at various points along the streams, these being the first application of water powers in the Eastern Townships.

The Life of the Pioneer

Portraits of pioneer ancestors are in the possession of many of the older families of the townships and they reveal, to a great extent, the early life of the inhabitants. The firm set mouth tells of the determination necessary to cope with the constant difficulties of the situation and the stern features bear testimony to the serious view of life. The pioneers were largely of Puritan descent and brought with them to the wilds of Canada the strict religious principles of their ancestors. For six days they labored from sunrise till sunset and on the seventh they rested in accordance with the literal interpretation of the commandment. In the face of privations and hardships which would be intolerable to the present generation they reared large families and gradually increased the acreage of their fields reclaiming from the wilderness the rich soil of the Eastern Townships and laying the foundation of present day prosperity. They have handed down a splendid heritage, and well would it be if the land had succeeded in holding the interest of a greater number of their descendants for the completion of their unfinished task of fully developing the agricultural wealth of this section of Canada.

Division of Land in 1815

Not all the lands of the townships which had been erected by Letters Patent were granted or leased to the inhabitants. A document in the Dominion Archives, signed by William Sax, deputy to the surveyor general, and bearing date, Quebec, March 13th, 1815, classifies the lands in the townships of the present district of St. Francis as follows:—

	Acres Granted	Crown Reserves	Clergy Reserves
Ascot	19,015	8,118	7,588
Brompton	43,400	7,800	8,800
Clifton	41,771	8,547	8,689
Compton	38,122	7,571	7,716
Dudswell	11,132	7,340	7,565
Eaton	30,600	8,800	8,800
Hereford	22,000	8,800	8,800
Melbourne	16,301	5,775	5,983
Orford	13,388	10,613	10,612
Shipton	56,900	11,167	11,185
Westbury	11,576	2,571	2,249
Windsor	51,007	10,135	10,158
Total	355,212	97,237	98,145

The report shows that 6,837 acres of the Crown reserves and 8,600 of the Clergy reserves had been leased.

Judicial

The Province of Quebec was organized in 1763, and included all the known territory of the present Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. The division into Upper and Lower Canada took place in 1792, and the organization of districts, counties, townships, etc., began. The township surveys began the same year. The first Provincial Parliament was called in 1793, Lord Dorchester being Governor-General.

The County of Richelieu was organized in 1792, and included the seignories of St. Ours and Rouville and all territory lying east of the Richelieu River and north of the parallel of 45 degrees. In 1821, the Inferior District of St. Francis was established, Sherbrooke being the cheflieu. The term "Inferior" was dropped in 1831.

In 1829, the County of Richelieu was divided, and the counties of Stanstead and Sherbrooke organized, also, Richelieu and St. Hyacinthe. In the same year the County of Bedford became the counties of Rouville and Missisquoi. Bolton and Potton townships in this organization belonged to Stanstead, the present Western boundary line of the county being established in 1847.

Prior to the establishment of the Inferior District of St. Francis, in 1821, and it would appear for some time afterwards, all serious cases were tried at Three Rivers. Minor cases, however, were brought before local Justices of the Peace and Major Jesse Pennoyer, in his interesting records, tells of sessions of these "courts" in 1808 and at subsequent dates. The disputes referred generally to money matters and the justices held their judicial inquiries often at private houses, going from point to point.

In the later 20's and subsequently district courts were held and important cases were tried in the townships. Commissioners' courts were, also, established in the various centres.

The surveying and establishing of roads were under the jurisdiction of the Grand Voyer, who resided in Montreal, visited the district from time to time, until 1841, when district councils were organized and took over the laying out of roads as well as other matters. The district councils were composed of representatives chosen by the different townships. Township councils were introduced in 1845. The present county council system was formed in 1847.

The Earliest Mail Routes

The pioneers of the Eastern Townships had none of the present day facilities for keeping in touch with world affairs. Great events of the Napoleonic wars were not heard of until months after their occurrence. The first mail route to Stanstead or rather to Derby Line from Wells River was established in 1812. There were no regular mails between various points in the Eastern Townships prior to 1817. All official documents were brought by special couriers. In 1817, a mail route from Stanstead to Quebec, via Melbourne, was established with weekly mails and in 1824 a summer route was opened to Montreal.

The first Eastern Townships newspaper was established in 1823, at Stanstead Plain, by Silas H. Dickenson, and was known as "The British Colonist."

The Farmers' and Mechanics' Journal and St. Francis Gazette afterwards known as the Sherbrooke Gazette was founded by Joseph Walton in 1838 and the Stanstead Journal by LeRoy Robinson in 1845.

Military

The geographical location of the Eastern Townships has saved it to a great extent from the ravages of war. The sturdy sons of the townships, however, have always shown their readiness to answer the call to arms in defence of their homes or on behalf of the Empire.

The most serious conflict actually taking place within the boundaries of the Eastern Townships antedates the arrival of the first settlers. It was in 1759 that Rogers led his expedition from the New England colony against the St. Francis tribe of Indians and destroyed their village, located at the junction of the St. Francis and St. Lawrence rivers. This was in reprisal for attacks made on the English colonists. Rogers was pursued by the Indians and a bloody battle, according to early records, took place at or near the site of the present city of Sherbrooke. Rogers succeeded in beating off the Indians but his party was almost entirely lost through the privations of the later retreat.

Reproduction of a letter written by Major Jessie Pennoyer.

War of 1812-15

The discovery a few years ago of the letter book of Major Jesse Pennoyer brought to light an interesting record of events in the Eastern Townships during the British-American war of 1812-15. Nearly all the inhabitants of the townships at that time had come from the New England States and the question of their loyalty to the British cause might naturally have arisen. There appears, however, to have been no uncertainty in their attitude, but the people of the Eastern Townships then, as they have done on subsequent occasions, stood firmly by the flag under the protection of which they lived, the emblem of the freedom they enjoyed.

The organization of an Eastern Townships militia began as early as 1805. Sir John Johnson, formerly major-general of militia for the northern district of New York, and afterwards Brigadier-General of Upper Canada, became commander of the townships' militia, organized as three battalions. Of the first battalion no record is obtainable. The second was commanded by Major Philip Luke, of St. Armand, who had as captains under him, William Johnson Holt, Jonas Abbott, James Peel, and Christian Wehr, Jr. The third battalion was commanded by Major Cull, of Hatley. In 1808, the 2nd and 3rd battalions were divided into the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th, with Col. Henry Ruiter, of St. Armand, in command of the 2nd ; Lt.-Col. Cull of the 3rd; Lt.-Col. Philip Luke of the 4th, and Lt.-Col. Patrick Conroy, of Compton, of the 5th. In 1812, shortly before the outbreak of the war, Col. Conroy died and Major Jesse Pennoyer succeeded to the command of the 5th battalion.

This 5th Eastern Townships Battalion had twelve companies, two Compton, under Capt. Guy Mills and Ensign Page Bull; Shipton Company, Capt. Parkins; Hereford Company, Lieut. Benj. Rogers ; Dudswell Company, Capt. Napthali Bishop; Melbourne Company, Capt. Daniel Miller; Eaton Company, Lieut. Chas. Lothrop; Ascot Company, Lieut. Cornelius Hyatt; Orford Company, Ensign Bildad Hubbard; Newport Company, Capt. S. Hurd; Shipton Company, Capt. E. Cushing; Kingsey Company, Capt. Moore. There was, also, a Brompton company and another of indefinite location.

The records show that immediately on the outbreak of hostilities, the work of organizing the local militia for active service was undertaken. Men were sent forward to join the forces assembled at St. Johns.

The Eastern Townships men were as ready to fight in defence of their homes in 1812 as they were in 1916 but they do not appear to have been quite as willing to volunteer for service overseas then as they have shown themselves to be a century later. The Napoleonic wars were then raging on the continent and the Eastern Townships militia men of that day sought assurances that their services were required in Canada and not upon the battlefields of Europe. The Napoleonic menace to the Empire and to Canada was less real than the Teutonic menace, else they would doubtless not have raised the question of destination.

In November, 1812, raiding forces from the south crossed the boundary into the Eastern Townships.

A Call to Arms

Major Jesse Pennoyer, under date of November 28th, 1812, issued the following stirring call to the company officers under his command:

Captain ——,

Sir,—

The enemy has come into our country. The battalions west of Lake Memphremagog have voluntarily and manfully turned out to meet them and whenever called upon (which I expect every moment) I hope we shall follow their generous example. In preparation for which I have to request that you will order that all those of your command who can leave home immediately to make themselves ready with eight days' provisions, a blanket and suitable clothes, so that when called upon they may be ready to march on the shortest notice. I am both ready and willing. It is proposed that a meeting of the magistrates and officers of militia should be held at Benjamin Stone's in Ascot, on the 25th of next month, when your presence and that of your commanding officers is desired. I hope we shall have done the business with the enemy previously.

I remain with great respect, Sir, your most humble servant,

J. PENNOYER.

Capt. commanding 5th Battalion Royal Eastern Militia.

A week later, Capt. Pennoyer issued a further order calling the men out. Chambly was to be the general place of rendezvous for the battalion.

It is recorded that by the 7th of December every man, able to leave home, was in readiness to march. The day appointed for setting out for Chambly was the 10th. Three days before the troops were to move, however, information came which enabled Capt. Pennoyer to issue the following countermanding order:—

Compton, Dec. 7, 1812.

Captain,—

Sir,—

Having received as I conceive correct information that the invading enemy has withdrawn from this province, and that we are not at present menaced with their approaches, in the first place I have to thank you for your particular attention to my order of the 4th instant, which thanks I wish to extend to every individual of every rank and class of people of your company who have shown a willingness to defend themselves and their country, and although our services do not at present seem to be wanted, I think it expedient to order that each and every man so turned out by orders of the 4th inst. to return to their several and respective homes and hold themselves in continual readiness to march at a moment's warning, when called upon. In the meantime I have the honor to remain, Sir,

Your most humble servant,

J. PENNOYER,

Captain, etc.

Though there were many alarms, there was no serious invasion of the Eastern Townships during the war of 1812-15, unless the attacks by way of Missisquoi Bay referred to below may be regarded as such.

Patrols from the States crossed the boundary into Compton County on several occasions but there were no engagements and no attempts to press further on. Only one man is known to have been killed in the border disturbance along the St. Francis district boundary, namely, David Morrill, of Stanstead, who was killed about Oct. 13th, 1814, in the township of Hereford, by raiders from the States and Nathaniel Morrill dangerously wounded. A counter raid followed in which Samuel Hugh, believed to be responsible for the shooting of David Morrill, was taken prisoner and conveyed to Stanstead.

Attacks by Way of Missisquoi Bay

West of Lake Memphremagog, in the vicinity of Missisquoi Bay, there were more serious events.

In 1812, General Dearborn assembled 10,000 American troops and from Plattsburg menaced Montreal. "But," says William F. Coffin, in his chronicles of the war, "The French-Canadian militia sprang to arms, the land bristled with bayonets." Major de Salaberry, in the infancy of his fame, had the command of the outposts, and under his inspiration, these undisciplined levies speedily showed that they were too much in earnest to be trifled with. After some parade of demonstration an attack was made on a picket at Lacolle by a force from Champlain town. The picket consisted of frontier militia and a few Indians under Col. McKay, of the Northwest Company. This gentleman so handled his small force, that the enemy, in the dark, fired upon their own people, killing several, and then much disconcerted, fell back on Champlain town from whence they came.

On June 1st, 1813, an attack was made on the garrison at Isle aux Noix, which bars the channel of the Richelieu about ten miles below the outlet of Lake Champlain. This was easily repulsed.

On July 29th a counter expedition of 1,000 officers and men left Isle aux Noix for Lake Champlain. On the following day the flotilla reached Plattsburg, dispersed the garrison and destroyed the barracks and removed a large quantity of military and naval stores.

Quoting again from "Chronicles of the War," : "The expedition then stood across the lake to Burlington. . . . captured and destroyed four vessels under the eyes of the very superior forces. . . . The barracks and stores at Swanton, on Missisquoi Bay, were destroyed, as were also the barracks, block stores and buildings at Champlain town."

In the autumn of 1813, further encounters occurred in this district. An American force of 5,000 men had been prepared for invasion of the district of Montreal. On September 29th, the enemy attempted to surprise the picket at Odelltown, but failed and the small garrison held their own until reinforced when the invaders were driven back.

In a raid in the vicinity of Philipsburg on Oct. 11th of the same year, the Americans were somewhat more successful.

Col. Luke's Account

Lt.-Col. Philip Luke, O.C. 4th Battalion of Eastern Townships Militia, thus describes the incident in a letter to the commander-in-chief.

St. Armand, Philipsburg, Mississquoi Bay,
Oct. 16th, 1813.

To Sir Roger Sheaffe, Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's forces in the District of Montreal:—
Sir:—

I have the unhappiness to inform you of a melancholly incident which transpired at this place during my absence to Montreal, and having on my return collected the most prominent circumstances from the most correct sources of information, I have the honor to transmit to you the following particulars:—

On the night of the 11th inst., the enemy under the command of Col. Isaac Clark, entered Missisquoi Bay with one sloop and ten batteaux and two scows, with a six-pounder on each scow, and in all containing about four hundred men. A detachment of about one hundred and fifty riflemen, commanded by Col. Clark in person, landed about two or three miles south of this village. The remaining boats landed on Caldwell's Manor, plundered the store of Mr. Joshua Healy, and some effects from the inhabitants and embarked from this place. At 4 o'clock on the morning of the 12th inst. we received an Express from Caldwell's Manor, that the enemy's troops were debarking there, and would probably visit us. Some arrangements were making for defence, when Col. Clark's detachment at daylight came upon us from an unexpected quarter and after an unequal resistance made by a few brave fellows they surrendered at discretion.

During the engagement, we had one man killed and eight wounded, but none mortally. The prisoners taken were Major Joseph Powel, Capt. John Ruiter, Capt. James Pell, Lieut. Philip Luke, Jr., Lieut. John Richard, Ensign Snider, Ensign George Willis, Ensign John Waggoner; in all, one major, two captains, two lieutenants, three ensigns, five sergeants and ninety-one privates, making a total of one hundred men, including the officers and wounded.

The prisoners were immediately marched to Swanton and from thence to Burlington. At 10 o'clock the sloop, batteaux, etc., under the command of Major Roberts, of Plattsburg, entered the harbor, landed their men and one six-pounder without opposition, at which time Col. Clark returned by land, took the 76 stands of arms captured by Col. Clark on board the boats, robbed the store of C. G. Lester &Co. of property to the amount of $3,540 from an actual invoice, plundered the store of Day & Gelston of about one thousand dollars in goods.

After some small depredations of less moment they embarked, and left the place at 4 o'clock p.m., having driven off many horses and oxen. On the morning of the 13st inst. the boats left the bay, but many marauding parties straggled from the troops, committed incessant robberies on the inhabitants contiguous to the line, by driving off their cattle, horses, waggons, etc., and robbing the families of cloths, provisions, bedding, etc., to a very considerable amount.

I have the honor to be with sentiment of esteem,

Your very humble servant,

(Signed) PHILIP LUKE,

Lieut.-Col. 4th Batt. E. Militia.

Peace came in 1814, and the inhabitants of the Eastern Townships laid aside their rifles, applying their undisturbed attention to the cultivation of the soil, the clearing of land and general development of the country.

Rebellion of 1837

The uprising in Canada in 1837-38, resulted in a good deal of agitation in the Eastern Townships, though no serious conflict occurred in this territory. Many "sympathizers" were arrested and Sherbrooke jail as well as other places of detention were crowded with inmates. The local militia was placed on "war footing" and many new companies of loyalists were organized.

In an order dated April 4th, 1839, placing these corps on a sedentery footing, the following units in the Eastern Townships are mentioned, namely, Missisquoi Borderers, Noyan Loyal Volunteers, Clarenceville Rangers, Barnston Volunteer Company, Queen's Mounted Rangers, British American Rifle Company, Sherbrooke Troop of Cavalry, Hatley Loyal Volunteers, Stanstead Volunteer Cavalry, Eastern Townships Loyal Volunteers.

The rebellion was followed in 1840 by the re-union of Upper and Lower Canada and the establishment of a greater measure of responsible government.

First Parliamentary Elections

The first elections for parliament took place in the spring of 1841, the house meeting at Kingston, Ont. The members chosen in the Eastern Townships were:— Megantic, Hon. Dominick Daily; Drummond, R. H. Watts; Sherbrooke, J. Moore; Stanstead, Marcus Child; Shefford, Mr. Foster; Missisquoi, Hon. Mr. Jones.

Stirring Days of the Civil War

The American Civil War of 1861-65 was not without effect on these border counties. Many Eastern Townships men fought in the armies of the Union and some were found under the Confederate banner. The women of the townships worked, as they have worked in the later great war, for the alleviation of the suffering of the soldiers. The townships were the haven of many Americans who sought to escape service and who were known as "skedadlers." An extensive business was, also, done along the border by rushing Canadians across the line against their will as "substitutes" for men who had been drafted and who were willing to pay a handsome amount for a substitute. The only noteworthy disturbance on the Eastern Townships southern border during this period was the incident known as the St. Alban's Raid when Col. Young and a party of Southerners, mostly escaped prisoners, organized in Montreal and raided the town of St. Albans, Vt. This was on Oct. 19, 1864. The banking institutions were attacked and a considerable sum of money secured. Shots were exchanged and one man, a citizen of St. Albans, fatally injured. It is related, however, that strangely enough he was what was known as a "copper head," the only one in the town, or in other words, a Northern sympathizer with the South. The St. Albans' raid proved a grave international incident.

The Fenian Raids

The Fenian Raids of 1866 and 1877 created a great deal of excitement in the Eastern Townships, and the men of the townships quickly organized to repel the threatened invasion. There were skirmishes at several points along the boundary, the most serious being at Eccles Hill, near St. Armand East, the Fenians being easily repulsed by the Home Guard. One of the raiders was killed and several wounded. The others quickly fled across the line and did not return.

A Century of Development

The first half of the nineteenth century, in the Eastern

Townships, was a struggle with the forest and the hardships incidental to pioneer life.

The second half of the century was a period of rapid development culminating in the prosperous years leading up to the present time, when improved roads have taken the place of the forest trails and railway transportation has replaced the river navigation of the early days. Smiling, cultivated fields have succeeded the difficult agriculture of the forest clearings and comfortable homes, with all modern conveniences, the rural mail, the telephone and the automobile have become the enjoyment of the descendants of those pioneers who laid the foundations of present day prosperity.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS HISTORICAL PUBLICATIONS

The most notable Eastern Townships historical publications are: "Pioneers of the Eastern Townships," by Mrs. C. M. Day, 1863 ; "Geography and History of Lower Canada," by Zadock Thompson, A.M., (Published at Sherbrooke, Lower Canada, in 1835) ; "The Eastern Townships," C. Thomas, 1866; "History of Shefford," C. Thomas, 1877; "The Frontier School Master," C. Thomas, 1880; "Hunter's Eastern Townships Scenery," by W. S. Hunter, 1860; "History of the Eastern Townships," by Mrs. Day, 1869; "Forests and Clearings," by B. F. Hubbard, 1874; "History of Shefford," printed by John Lovell, 1877; "Donald Morrison," by Oscar Dhu; "History of Compton County," by L. S. Channell, 1895; "Annual Reports of Missisquoi and Brome Historical Societies"; "Early Shefford Pioneers,', by J. P. Noyes; "Brome County History," by Rev. E. M. Taylor, M.A. ; Historical Sketch Kingsey Pioneers; "Annals of Megantic Pioneers," D. M. McKillop, 1902; "History of Eaton," by C. M. Lebourveau; "Etymology of Missisquoi," by Dr. George McAleer; "Reminiscent and Otherwise," (pamphlet) by Dr. G. McAleer; "The Voice of the River (Pike River) by Mrs. Morgan, Bedford; "Academy Days in Old Missisquoi," by Julia H. S. Bugeia and Theodora Cornell Moore, 1910; "Early Settlement of Shipton Townships," by Cleveland, 1858; History of Drummond County, by St. Amant (French); "Canadian Wild Flowers," by Helen M. Johnson (1834-1863) edited by Rev. J. M. Orrock, 1884, being a book of poems, 200 pages, author lived near Magog, also published a book of religious poems; Letters of Major Jesse Pennoyer, 1812-21, published in Sherbrooke Record, 1906, original letter book now in possession of Rev. C. H. Pennoyer, typewritten copy in Archives at Ottawa; "Silver Lake," Dr. J. M. Harper; "A Book of Verse," 1912, Mrs. George Arkley; History of Golden Rule Lodge, Stanstead, 1803-1903, Rev. A. H. Moore, M.A. ; "The Grand Old Man of Dudswell," Mrs. W. H. Drummond, 1917.

Among pamphlets, sectional and miscellaneous publications containing historical data which have been issued in the Eastern Townships there may be mentioned, "Baptist Church, Abbott's Corner, 82nd Anniversary," Judge Lewis B. Hubbard, 1881, and "Abbott's Corner Centennial, Sept. 6th, 1899," by the same author; "Eastern Townships Bank, 1859-1912" ; "50th Anniversary Eastern Townships Bank, 1859-1909" ; "Sherbrooke," a booklet of 51 views ; "Protestant Schools of the Eastern Townships," Dept. Public Instruction, 1913" ; Souvenir of Old Home Week, Coaticook, 1914" ; "The Stanstead Cavalry," Major William Melrose, 1914; Book of Poems, by Rev. F. W. Fyles, D.C.L., 1907; "Abbottsford," J. M. Fish, 1916; Eastern Townships Pathfinder, 1914.

Among books containing important references to the Eastern Townships but not wholly on this subject are, "Burt's Illustrated Connecticut Valley Guide," 1866, containing chapter relative to Lake Memphremagog and Uriah Skinner, the famous smuggler; also, the story of Runaway Pond, in 1810; Canadian Scenery, Bartlett, about 1838; Life of Rev. Alvah Sabin, 1793-1839, by Alvah S. Hobart, 1885; "Chronicles of Montreal and Canada," 1752-1893, by F. W. Terrill, 1893; "History of Huntingdon Chateauguy and Beauharnors,' 'Robert Seller, 1888; "History of Free Masonry in Quebec," Graham; "Waterpowers of Canada," (Ottawa), 1911; "Maple Sugar," J. B. Spencer, 1913; "Illustrated Atlas of Dominion," H. Belden & Co., 1881; History of Antiquities of New England, New York and New Jersey," J. W. Barber, 1841; "Buildings and Ornamental Stones of Canada," Vol. III., by W. A. Parks, 1914; "Canadian Rural Education," 1913, J. C. Sutherland; "Decorative Art of Indian Tribes of Connecticut; "Penobscot Tales, etc., F. G. Speck, 1915; "The Canadian Colony," a story of United Empire Loyalists, by Rev. W. B. Tucker; also, numerous Dominion Government publications referring largely to geological matters and containing interesting references to the Eastern Townships.

Government publications of historical value include, "Eastern Townships of Quebec," Minister of Colonization, 1912; "Chrome, Iron Ore deposits in the Eastern Townships," F. Cirkel, 1909; "Chrysotile—Asbestos," F. Cirkel, 1910; "Gold in Quebec," J. Obalski, 1898; "Copper in the Eastern Townships," J. A. Dresser, 1907; "Serpentine and Associated Rocks," J. A. Dresser, 1913; "Recent discoveries of gold near Lake Megantic," J. A. Dresser, 1908; "The Serpentine Belt of Southern Quebec," J. A. Dresser, 1910; "Geology and Petrography of Shefford Mountain," J. A. Dresser, 1902; "Geology of Brome Mountain," J. A. Dresser, 1906; also, numerous year books and departmental reports.

Important unpublished records may be found in the Dominion Archives and the Brome County Historical Building, and a valuable collection of data pertaining to the Eastern Townships are in the possession of Dr. John Hayes, Richmond, Rev. George Allen, Montgomery, Vt., and of many descendants of pioneer families. The fyles of the Sherbrooke Record and of the various weekly newspapers of the townships contain many historical articles which have been published from time to time.

NOTE.—The publishers, in compiling the above list, have been greatly assisted by Rev. George Allen, Montgomery, Vt., Dr. John Hayes, Richmond, and Rev. E. M. Taylor, Knowlton.

SECTION III.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS AND THE GREAT WAR

Realization.

So peaceful is the day in this fair land,
So calm and still the night,
Untroubled lives find hard to understand,
This vital, awful fight.

Yet, through an agony of blood and pain,
The men who marched away
Strive that humanity may not in vain
Reach upward to the Day.

For us they die in this appalling strife
On Flanders' blood-stained sod,
And in that last, supremest act of life
Pass onward to their God.

In this dread hour of danger at the flood,
Inspired our lives should rise,
Touched by the anointing chrism of their blood,
To nobler sacrifice.

With holy pride, too deep to be expressed,
Though hero-souls have passed,
We glory that in this the final test
Their shattered ranks held fast.

In that storm centre of infernal fire
Where sleep the immortal Dead,
Their dying hands upraised the standard higher!—
Who guards it in their stead?

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS AND THE GREAT WAR

In years to come when the story of Canadian valor and Canadian service in the Great War is written, the Eastern Townships will hold an honorable place in those glorious records. The blood of Eastern Townships men has mingled with that of other khaki clad heroes from every part of the Dominion in the soil of war ravaged France and Belgium and fearlessly have the men from this part of Canada faced the enemy of freedom.

When, on the 4th of August, 1914, the news flashed around the world that the British Empire had joined with France in accepting the challenge of German militarism, the Overseas Dominions sprang to arms. The menace to Canadian institutions was recognized to be as real as was the danger to the mother land herself and, in fact, evidence was not lacking that Canada was one of the chief prizes which Germany wished to attain.

The first call for thirty thousand men found a quick response, and Eastern Townships voices mingled with the answer, "Ready, Aye, Ready." In that remarkable armada which sailed down the St. Lawrence and across the seas in early fall, were many Eastern Townships men, and the valiant sons of the Townships were to be found in every corps subsequently organized in the province.

The Princess Pats had its quota of Eastern Townships men as did the Royal Scots (commanded by Brigadier-General F. O. W. Loomis, an Eastern Townships man), the 11th and 12th and every battalion of the early days.

Then came the organization of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles in the spring of 1915, the first distinctive Eastern Townships corps, followed by the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion, the 35th Battery, and the 178th French-Canadian Battalion.

In the meantime, the Grenadier Guards, the 5th Pioneers, the Irish Rangers, and Kitchener's Own with headquarters in Montreal and the 171st, of Quebec, found this territory a favorable field for recruits.

A complete record of enlistments from the Eastern Townships is unobtainable but from figures available it may be stated that close to five thousand Eastern Townships men have joined the forces for overseas service. Some of the fiercest fighting has found them in the first battle line and no troops have manifested the qualities of steadfastness and sustained valor to a greater degree than those who joined the colors from these southern counties of Quebec.

Many sleep beneath the sod beyond the seas, others will carry with them through life the scars of battle and all will hold a place of honor in their country's records because of their association with the grand army of Canada.

5th C. M. R.

Among Canadian units in overseas service, the story of the 5th C.M.R. is comparable with that of the Princess Patricias and the Royal Scots. They were called upon to meet the fiercest assaults of the enemy. They held their ground and made the supreme sacrifice for their country's cause.

The 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles were authorized early in the winter of 1915, with headquarters at Sherbrooke. Recruiting was carried on energetically though not exclusively in the Eastern Townships and the regiment received its preliminary training on the Exhibition grounds, Sherbrooke, where it occupied barracks. A fine body of men, well officered and well mounted, the 5th C.M.R. was in excellent condition, about 600 strong, when the orders came, early in June, to proceed to Valcartier for further training before going overseas.

About this time the officers and men manifested the strength of their patriotism in reaching a very trying decision. Nearly all the officers were cavalrymen, trained and attached to this branch of the service and the same applied to the rank and fyle as well, the Eastern Townships members being drawn largely from the local cavalry regiments. The war had settled down to a struggle from trenches and there was no immediate use for cavalry. The regiment was asked if it was prepared to go as infantry. Disappointing as the situation was, the response was prompt, unanimous and in the affirmative.

Eastern Townships Farewell

June 4th, 1915, will ever stand out as a stirring occasion in connection with the early days of the 5th C.M.R. On that day some 10,000 people from all parts of the Eastern Townships assembled in Sherbrooke to bid God speed to the gallant lads from the townships, the first distinctive Eastern Townships unit to go overseas. The day was ideal and the programme consisted of march through the city and review on the parade ground in the morning, sports on the Exhibition grounds in the afternoon and concert given by talent from the regiment, in the theatre in the evening.

Many wives and sweethearts and children, as well as friends in general, on this day, saw for the last time on earth their loved ones who had responded to the call of duty. "Perhaps the war will be over before they reach the firing line," was the thought that consoled those who were left behind. "We hope we will not be too late to strike a blow for freedom," was the wish that inspired the lads in khaki as they bade good bye to friends with the cheery, "We'll be back soon from our trip to Berlin."

Mayor James MacKinnon, in expressing the official farewell, at His Majesty's Theatre in the evening, said:

"To Lieut.-Col. G. H. Baker and the Officers and Men of the Fifth Mounted Rifles:

"I deem it an especial privilege, as well as a distinguished honor, to be entrusted by the Corporation of the City of Sherbrooke, as its Mayor, with the duty of conveying to you one and all, on this occasion, an expression of the feelings of admiration and esteem which the citizens of Sherbrooke, without exception, entertain towards the members of your gallant corps.

"We believe sincerely that a finer body of men were never assembled in this or any other city, and certainly never for a nobler purpose, and your gentlemanly and soldierly bearing, since your coming amongst us, and throughout your too brief stay, has been viewed with feelings of peculiar pride by us all.

"You have, with distinguished patriotism, and unselfish devotion to your country and the Empire, left your homes, your business and your professions, to take an active part in the greatest war that has ever devastated this fair earth, and to join on the firing line, your compatriots who have gone before you, and who have already, by their glorious deeds thrilled the hearts of all the people of all nations and countries.

"Canadian soldiers have won undying fame on the fields of Flanders and France, not only in the eyes of the Allies and neutral nations, but they have inspired the enemy, trained to war for a generation, with feelings of involuntary admiration for their fighting qualities to such an extent that they have recently admitted that the Canadians are the best fighting men on the Continent of Europe today.

"We are confident that you will maintain and add to the fame your countrymen have already acquired at Ypres and Langemarck and countless other blood-stained fields where Britain is battling side by side with her Allies, with unselfish devotion for honor and the rights of humanity, and with a courage and tenacity which baffle all obstacles a savage and unprincipled foe can oppose to them.

"Your noble example will be an incentive to others to follow you, as long as the Mother Country needs the help of our brave sons, and we are confident that your gallantry and sturdy bravery at this critical time and in whatever positions you may be placed, will aid materially in bringing the war to a successful conclusion, and in putting an end forever to that barbarous militarism which has cast its black shadow over the world.

"We shall pray constantly for your safety and success and with hearts full of confident trust in your intention and ability to maintain the noblest ideals of British freemen, we bid you Godspeed on your way to join the Armies of the Empire.

"Signed on behalf of the Corporation and Citizens of Sherbrooke, this fourth day of June, 1915.

"JAMES MACKINNON,
"Mayor."

The Sherbrooke Board of Trade had arranged to present a pipe and supply of tobacco to every man of the Regiment.

This was announced by the President, Mr. J. E. Poutre, who said:

"Col. Smart, Col. Baker, Col. Morrill and Officers and Men of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles :

"On behalf of the Board of Trade of Sherbrooke I desire to add a word to those of the Mayor in appreciation of the splendid regiment you command. It has been a source of very great satisfaction to us all that this Regiment has been organized in Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships, and our very best wishes will go with you all as you follow the flag to victory.

"The Sherbrooke Board of Trade wishes in some way to manifest its good-will and good wishes, and has directed me to ask you to accept for each man of the Regiment a slight token in the form of a pipe and supply of tobacco to be distributed at the camp at some convenient time to you.

"With this slight token, I can assure you, go the heartiest good wishes of the business men of Sherbrooke."

The Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade took occasion to present the Regiment with a large Union Jack on the eve of its departure in the name of the people of the Eastern Townships. The presentation was made at the concert given in the theatre on June 4th. The president, Mr. V. E. Morrill, in handing the token of good will and victory to Col. Baker, said :

"We realize and I believe the people of this country realize, that the soldiers of Canada upon the battlefields of Europe are fighting not only for the Mother Country, for the integrity of the Empire, and for the preservation of human liberty in the world but that they are, also, at the same time defending every individual home in their far away native land for the effects of this struggle must be profoundly felt in every part of the Empire.

"In wishing the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles Godspeed and a safe return, the Associated Boards hope that you will accept this flag as a token of the admiration they feel for your splendid Regiment—a plain, old-fashioned Union Jack which a million khaki-clad men are today fighting to defend, the flag of Empire, the flag of victory."

Col. G. H. Baker's Reply to Farewell Addresses

Lieut.-Col. Baker, in responding to the addresses, said it was with a keen sense of satisfaction and pleasure that the happy duty fell to him to acknowledge on behalf of the regiment the addresses and presentations. The city of Sherbrooke had become the military home of the 5th Mounted Rifles, recruited in the Eastern Townships and the Province, and now they were going forth in a little while backed by the good wishes of the people. It was for that reason they particularly appreciated the very warm words uttered on behalf of the city and they would always carry the addresses with them, which he was sure would spur them on to things worthy of the people from whom they had sprung.

In accepting the pipes and tobacco from the Sherbrooke Board of Trade, he wished to say that later on when they were far from home as the rings of smoke went up into the air they would seem to be filled with many happy memories of their stay in Sherbrooke. And in accepting the flag from the Associated Boards of Trade, he wished to say that the old Union Jack was good enough for them and if they only half fulfilled the traditions of the men who had gone before them they would not have lived in vain.

Col. Baker hoped he was within hearing of some of the young men of the Eastern Townships when he said that owing to the very strict and rigid medical examination required of the recruits, the ranks of the regiment had been depleted to some extent and about one hundred more men were required. He extended to the young men his very warmest greetings and hoped it would not be long before the ranks were filled.

The gatherings during the day, one after another, spoke volumes for the Eastern Townships and showed that the serious minded men and women were taking a deep interest in everything pertaining to this great conflict. The officers and men had been encouraged throughout the day by the presence of people from every hamlet and township in the Eastern Townships, and when the need for more men was known abroad he felt sure that before long they would have more good men than they wanted, "Remember, we only want good men," Col. Baker significantly added.

"We have in the ranks of our regiment sons of the best families of this country. We have material to make a regiment that will fulfil the traditions of Canada and when I say that I am not unmindful of the undertaking nor of the example that has been set to us by our brothers who have gone before us. But their deeds and their achievements will make our duty and our accomplishments easier because we well know that the standard is set high and must be kept up, and those we leave behind in this military home of Sherbrooke expect us to do our duty."

COL. SMART EXPRESSES APPRECIATION.

Lieut.-Col. Smart, brigadier, followed and expressed his pleasure at being given the opportunity of publicly saying a few words expressive of his appreciation of the very great kindness extended to himself and the officers and men of the Fifth Mounted Rifles by the people of Sherbrooke. Col. Baker had said he only wanted good men—he had a lot of good men. He had spent twenty years in the Canadian militia and most of that time with the Eastern Townships cavalry, and naturally his heart went out to the Fifth Mounted Rifles in preference to any other. They were going out to fight in the cause of liberty and justice and what more fitting emblem could have been presented to Col. Baker than the Union Jack, the flag that had braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze; the flag which above all other flags in the world stood for liberty and justice. Those who were privileged to go and fight were going to fight in a noble cause. It was true every man who went sacrificed something—men of rank, position and wealth were making great sacrifices in leaving their homes, but to his mind the poor man was the man who sacrificed most.

Col. Smart said he felt that the greatest heroes of the war were the women who were left behind. Since the war broke out the women of the Empire had risen nobly to their duties, they had been indefatigable in working for the needs and comforts of the men who were training at home and fighting at the front and he took occasion to specially thank the ladies of Sherbrooke for their work in this direction which was so heartily appreciated.

The 5th C.M.R. sailed from Quebec on the Hesperian (a ship subsequently sunk by a submarine) in July and after an uneventful voyage landed at Plymouth and proceeded to Shorncliffe for training.

Field kitchens, subscribed for by friends throughout the townships, through a fund organized by the Sherbrooke Record, were forwarded to the regiment and reached them for use while in training in England. The fund was greatly oversubscribed and as the demand for machine guns had become the urgent call of the hour, the surplus was forwarded to the Department of Militia for the purchase of a machine gun for the battalion.

The officers of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles when they entered upon active service overseas were as follows :

Staff—Lt.-Colonel G. H. Baker, Major B. B. Morrill, Captain W. Rhoades, Lieut. A. A. Tritsch, Lieut. K. M. Campbell, (Hon.) Capt. E. A. Robinson, Captain H. R. Cleveland, Captain J. R. Goodall, Captain W. F. McConnell, Lieut. H. F. Meurling, Lieut. H. Foxwell.

"A." Squadron—Major D. C. Draper, Captain H. J. Pitts, Lieut. C. W. Hewson, Lieut. J. S. E. Todd, Lieut. K. L. Duggan, Lieut. L. K. Greene, Lieut. J. Tudhope.

"B." Squadron—Major N. C. Pilcher, Captain J. L. Smeaton, Lieut. E. Chauvin, Lieut. S. L. Craft, Lieut. L. W. Fish, Lieut. G. K. Hannah, Lieut. J. Sneath.

"C." Squadron—Major R. F. Stockwell, Captain J. R. MacLeod, Lieut. E. Gill, Lieut. G. D. Bishop, Lieut. H. H. Cotton, Lieut. W. H. Harton, Lieut. T. R. Ker.

Extra—Lieut. G. H. Savage, Lieut. N. M. Macdonald, Lieut. B. H. Wade.

It should be mentioned here that one very efficient officer, Major J. R. Wilcox, of Magog, who had been in command of "A." Company was deprived of the privilege of going overseas, owing to physical disability, greatly to the regret of himself and of the regiment.

The 5th C.M.R. proceeded to France on October 24th, 1915, and at once was moved forward, entering the trenches within a few days.

The casualties during the fall and winter were exceedingly light. No officers were lost during this period and only a very few men. The regiment, however, bore its share of trench service during the long months of winter. Lt.-Col. B. B. Morrill, second in command, was obliged to return to England in December owing to serious illness and did not become convalescent for several months when he served for a time as training officer of a reinforcing battalion in England, returning to France in October, 1916, as O.C. of the reinforcing camp of the 3rd Canadian Division, on the Somme front. During the winter the regiment was reorganized to more closely conform to the infantry establishment, Col. G. H. Baker being re-appointed in command of the 5th C.M.R. as reorganized.

Death of Pilcher and MacDonald

The regiment sustained its first serious loss on May 19th, 1916, when Major N. C. Pilcher and Lieut. MacDonald were killed by a bursting shell. Both were gallant and efficient officers and the loss was severely felt.

On November 19th, 1916, a largely attended memorial service was held in St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, when a tablet to the memory of Major Pilcher was unveiled. It bore the following inscription :

"In memory of Major Norman Campbell Pilcher, (5th C.M.R.), killed in action at the battle of Ypres, on May 19th, 1916.

"This tablet is erected by the non-coms. and men of the 53rd Regiment."

Third Battle of Ypres

It was in the third battle of Ypres, when the Germans let loose their tremendous attack upon the Ypres salient, that the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles suffered their most serious casualties in common with other battalions engaged in holding this bloody angle of the allied line. The city of Ypres prior to the war contained a population of about 100,000 people. In its vicinity some of the fiercest fighting of the war took place and none exceeded in ferocity that of June 2nd and 3rd, 1915, when the enemy made his last great effort to capture the much coveted position. It began with an artillery attack, hurling high explosive shells from hundreds of guns. The Canadians held on, in spite of terrible casualties, and of the battalions engaged few suffered more or resisted more tenaciously than the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles. Less than one hundred of the thousand men comprising the battalion responded at the first roll call following the battle. The casualties included Lieut.-Col. Baker, Capt. Pitts, killed; Major Draper, Capt. Rhodes, Lieut. Fish, Lieut. Chauvin, Lieut. Harton, as well as nearly all the other officers, wounded, and a very large portion of the rank and fyle killed or wounded. But they held their ground. The story of this great fight, so far as it concerned the 5th C.M.R., is best told in the letter of Adjutant, Capt. Rhodes, to the Misses Baker, with special reference to Col. Baker.

Capt. Rhodes wrote as follows :—

"From 9 a.m. on June 2 until 9.30 p.m. we were subjected to an intense fire from guns of all calibres. The battalion was in support about 580 yards in rear of the front line trenches, and in such a position that we could not get any adequate protection from the constant rain of heavy shells which seemed to search out every corner of our line.

"To keep a stout heart at such a time when you cannot see your enemy or get a chance to return any of his fire is no easy task. For over twelve hours however your brother not only made whatever dispositions were required from time to time with cool and calm judgment but by his cheerfulness and calmness set such an example to us that none could be otherwise than truly unafraid.

"He always had a cheery word to each one as he passed along the line, and the answering smile was always forthcoming, indicating clearer than anything else could have done the love and perfect confidence each felt for his commanding officer.

"Our casualties were very heavy, and about 8.30 p.m. the fire increased to its utmost intensity so much so that for the next hour all we could do was to sit with back to the parapet and do what little we could to help those struck from time to time.

"From the intensity of the fire we judged that an attack would shortly be made on this section of our line, and had just decided that the few of us who were left—seven was all we could muster here—could not hope to do very much to stem it, when a shell burst, killing or wounding all of us, who were left, except Major Draper, who escaped with a bad shaking from the force of the explosion.

"Up to this time the Colonel's cheery voice had always been heard whenever a shell or bomb burst very near calling, Are you all right, Captain? I would answer, Yes, sir, are you?

"I was not badly hurt and called out, Are you all right, Sir? Getting no answer, I felt over for the Colonel and found him lying unconscious, but breathing faintly.

"I cannot attempt to tell you how we got our dearly loved commanding officer out of the trench and across the firing line to the wood for about 100 yards, till we got into a communication trench affording a little more shelter than the one we had left and where there was a chance of getting help; or how we escaped further injury on the way torn up as it was with bursting shells and littered with a tangled mass of falling trees, telephone wires and hundreds of shell holes.

"Here we were able to render first aid, but though everything possible was done the Colonel never regained consciousness. He died just as we got to the nearest dressing station at about 12.15 on the morning of June 3.

"The casket was made by the Pioneers and your brother was buried with military honors the same day at 5 p.m., in the new military cemetery at Poperinghe. The service was conducted by Major A. W. Woods, Chaplain. The few remaining officers of the regiment and those from the Brigade acted as pall-bearers, followed by every N.C.O. and man who could possibly be spared."

The Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister, in an interview, following the news of the heroic resistance of the Canadians at Ypres said :—

"I have read with the deepest regret the long list of casualties which has just been announced and which will bring sorrow to so many homes in Canada. The Canadian forces held an important and honorable portion of the British line, and it is evident they were subjected to an intense bombardment followed by an infantry attack in great force. The splendid gallantry with which their counter-attack was delivered and the lost ground recovered maintain the glorious record established in April of last year by the First Division.

"Among so many gallant officers who are named in the list it would be impossible to particularize. I may, however, be permitted to mention one of my colleagues in the House of Commons, Lieut.-Col. G. H. Baker, M.P. He was a man of the highest ability, of fine character in every way and his death is not only a great loss to his immediate friends and relatives, but to the public life of Canada, in which, if he had lived, he would certainly have filled a very distinguished place. Without distinction of party, all of his colleagues in the House will accord to his family and relatives deepest sympathy. I mourn his death as that of a very dear personal friend."

Tribute of Major General Sir Sam Hughes

At a memorial service held at Sweetsburg, on June 18th, for Col. Baker and other members of the 5th C.M.R. who had fallen, and at which the Minister of Militia was present, Sir Sam Hughes said in part :

"When the war broke out, Col. Baker being a cavalry officer, volunteered to raise a cavalry regiment. But the government at that time was not asking for cavalry regiments. Later on it was my privilege and pleasure to commission Col. Baker to raise a regiment in the Eastern Townships, in which you all took a great interest, and which has so distinguished itself at such terrific cost in the last two weeks. Baker went to the front, but as no use was found for cavalry fighting, it being trench warfare, he was one of the first to volunteer to change his regiment from a cavalry regiment into infantry. A number of the younger officers could not find a position in consequence of doubling up the regiments by drafting the Mounted Rifles and others. Col. Baker was one of the junior commanding officers and not likely to get a regiment. I offered him a position (superior to the command of a regiment) on the headquarters staff where he would be free from danger, but his affection for his boys and his splendid soldier qualities would not allow him to accept it. He said he would stick to the boys from the Officers 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles at Time of Departure Overseas.

Eastern Townships and would not desert them. When it came to the final issue a few days ago he was in an entrenchment with no supports. The line was broken by an overwhelming bombardment, our troops in the trenches were very few in number. The Germans, immediately their artillery ceased came on in large numbers and the opponents numbered twenty to one in some cases, and some had to fall back. Baker came to the relief but could not afford to fire without the risk of injuring our own men so he took the charge with the bayonet and the result was that many of his men beside himself were killed. His heart was in the Eastern Townships. I have heard many times of Sweetsburg, have often been invited by his many friends including Mr. Foster, but never visited his old home until today. His remains lie in Belgium but his spirit is I believe where the spirit of every man goes who lives his life for human liberty—safe in the place where all good spirits go. But his example will go down in the Eastern Townships and his name will be revered by the boys old and young, and the men and women of the Townships and the Dominion of Canada for many a long day. After the war we may have the privilege of bringing his body home and laying his remains to rest in his native town of Sweetsburg, but his spirit is just as happy whether his body lies under the poppies and roses of Belgium or under the maples of Sweetsburg. I have no doubt, however, that the people of Sweetsburg and the surrounding country will erect some suitable memorial in honor of his memory later. My colleagues asked me to express their regret to his friends and family. Baker was one of the junior commanding officers and not likely to get a regiment. He refused to take a position where he would be safe at the headquarters. He stuck to his boys and has fallen with them."

One of Finest Incidents of This or Any Other Fight

The London Times referring to the defence of Maple Copse and Sanctuary Wood, a section of the line where the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles were engaged said :

"At Sanctuary Wood next day, when our men pushed through in the counter attack, they found the ground covered with German dead, and the defence and successful holding of the position at Maple Copse was one of the finest incidents of this or any other fight."

Narrative of Glorious Stand by Canadians

Until the historian, in after years, records the complete story of the heroic resistance of Canadians at Ypres on June 2nd and 3rd, the account of the Times, published some time after the battle, and based upon the stories of participants, will be accepted as the best narrative available.

The following extracts may well be reproduced in this volume :

"How suddenly the attack began is shown by the fact that General Mercer and General Williams, who are among the missing, had gone into the front trenches because it was a clear and quiet morning, suitable for observation. When last seen by our men, General Mercer was suffering badly from shock, and was quite deaf, as a result of shells bursting near him, but he was, so far as is known, untouched. General Williams, with whom was Colonel Usher, had been slightly wounded in the head. Both had taken shelter in a well-protected dugout known as "The Tube," and they appear to have been there when the Germans came into the trench.

"The narratives of all the battalions in the front line trenches agree as to the suddenness with which the bombardment began over the whole area attacked, and the terrible and, so far as this front is concerned, the unprecedented severity with which it continued, without interruption, for over four long hours before the infantry attack was made. The weapon which the Germans are now chiefly using is the 5.9, but every other sort of gun was employed, including heavy howitzers, naval guns, and trench mortars, with high explosive, shrapnel and lachrymatory shells.

"In such a position as this, at the angle of a salient, the place attacked can be subjected to a concentrated fire from all sides, but, quite apart from this local condition, the immense weight of artillery now used, in proportion to their size, in all attacks on this front has given the fighting of the last few weeks a new character. Artillery fire is not now used merely to demoralize the enemy or break up formations. It is used to annihilate, to obliterate every form of defensive work, and make life itself impossible on every yard of the ground attacked. I will not labour the point for the benefit of the makers of munitions at home. What I desire now is to make it thoroughly understood that this is the general rule, the formula, of all attacks nowadays, and that in this articular case, it was this kind of fire which the Canadians had to stand and take hour after hour, without any possibility of using a rifle in reply. There is no shadow of a difference of opinion as to the fact that no troops on earth could have behaved with greater steadiness or more admirable gallantry than they did.

"It is not desirable to mention regiments or brigades by name or to individualize battalions by their true numbers, beyond saying that the troops engaged including units of the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry, the Canadian Mounted Rifles, the Royal Canadian Regiment, and the Canadian Infantry. The northern end of the line attacked, just south of Hooge, was held by the Patricias, and here, in the Sanctuary Wood, was fighting of the most desperate kind. The "wood" now is a mere ghost of what the name implies. There is little greenery or shelter; nothing but a certain remnant of ragged stumps and bits of splintered poles. To the south, occupying the middle of the ground covered by the enemy's concentrated fire, were battalions of the Canadian Mounted Rifles. Here the trenches are out on the flat in a region where the soil a few feet below the surface becomes water, so that defensive works of any depth, capable of resisting modern shell fire, are impracticable.

"It was hell—there is no other word for it—over the whole line; hell minute by minute and hour after hour, and not only over the front line itself, but in the region behind, where lay the places known as Maple Copse, Observatory Ridge, and Armagh Wood. Each one of these names will be written large in history. The lines in front of these were held then by a battalion of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, and other battalions came up later to assist them through the barrage, and few things finer, it is said, were ever seen in war than the way in which they came.

"It is not easy to convey to one who has not seen it, or the effects of it, what such a bombardment as was concentrated here implies. Most people in England now have some idea of a Zeppelin bomb. If you can imagine Zeppelin bombs dropping at a rate of scores to the minute over every acre of a given area, continuing unceasingly for hours, until before the end there is no spot where the holes in the ground do not coalesce and none where every sort of structure on the earth's surface is not a shapeless lump of ruin, you will have some idea of what the latest type of artillery bombardment means.

"It is quite certain that the Germans had no idea that any human being could have lived through their artillery attack. When the infantry advanced they came, not charging, but with full kit and in regular formation, as if to occupy untenanted ground. They paid for it. This occurred in at least two places—in Sanctuary Wood and at Maple Copse. At Sanctuary Wood next day, when our men pushed through in the counter-attack, they found the ground covered with German dead, and the defence and successful holding of the position at Maple Copse was one of the finest incidents of this or any other fight.

"There was a position here held by C. Company of a certain battalion. To the troops in reserve, no less than to the enemy, it seemed that the whole place must be obliterated, and that none of the defenders could survive. No shots came from it as the German infantry attack began, and an effort was made to send up another company to help, or rather, to take the ruined place over.

"From the other side the Germans came on to take possession, carrying bombs in case any shred of resistance remained. There was a shred. The defenders waited in silence until the enemy was almost within bombing distanc, and then, so deadly was the fire that at the first volley the enemy dropped their bombs and fled. A second time they came on, and again were driven back. The place thereafter was battered by artillery and drenched with rifle fire; but when night fell C Company was still in possession and the ground is ours now. The captain who had led the defence at this point throughout the day was among those killed towards the end.

"More hopeless, but even more splendidly dramatic, were some of the scenes enacted along the trenches. After the long bombardment, the enemy heralded his infantry attack by blowing up some mines, which besides the wreckage they wrought in our positions at that particular point also caused considerable loss of life. The actual advance of the infantry from the trenches was preceded and partially concealed by a smoke barrage. To the dazed and broken remnants of the men in our trenches; then, the enemy was not visible until he was close at hand. Of one battalion few of the men who remained had any rifles left that were fit for use even if the men had been fit to use them. But when they say the enemy coming and close at hand they climbed from the trenches to meet them and, some blind and deaf and staggering, they charged magnificently but pitifully to their deaths with no weapons but broken rifle butts, bits of entrenching tools, and in some cases their fists. I do not know where in war you will look for a more tragical or more thrilling episode.

"It is of such men that the German communique foully says that the number of prisoners taken was small because the enemy ran away. The reason why few prisoners were taken was because the Canadians fought to the last with a pride of spirit which the Germans do not know, against guns and rifles and bombs, with broken rifles and bare hands.

"There is the tale of a captain who, finding himself in command of a remnant, some slightly wounded, all dazed and deafened, and mostly without effective arms, ordered them to go back and, when they protested, made them go. He stayed till the last man was gone, and the others, looking back, saw him empty his revolver at the advancing enemy, then fling it in the faces of the Germans and himself leap after it.

"Of one battalion only one officer, of the machine gun section, survived unwounded. The losses in the two supporting battalions were less heavy than those of the battalions which were in the front line from the first, and they say that the gallantry and steadiness with which the supports came up through the barrage, going through death, with nothing but death and the chance of helping a comrade beyond, was magnificent beyond words.

"Nor does anyone claim that the officers behaved any better than the men. Whenever the higher officers were killed the N.C.O. took command with promptitude and coolness. Of a group of 20 stretcher bearers with one part of the force five were killed, and those ought to have been killed 50 times. The surviving officers give great praise to the signallers, who did their best to keep communication going, and the mortality among them was as heavy as among any other branch.

"As for the innumerable gallant deeds done by men in the ranks, one deserves to be recorded. It was by a private. Under the awful artillery fire, to which there was no replying with rifles, he had busied himself in caring for the wounded, and had bandaged one officer, two non-commissioned officers and two privates, and was looking after them as well as he could behind a forlorn bit of battered sandbag breastwork out in the open, for the trenches were all gone. The fragment of his company was told to fall back, but he refused. He had got his private hospital there, and one of the wounded privates was a pal from his own small town in far Canada. So he stayed with his pal.

"It is all a dreadful story to have to tell, but a splendid one. Long after the issues of minor engagements in this war are forgotten, and when everybody has ceased to care whether at any moment we gained or lost a hundred yards of ground or a mile of trench, the memory of how the Canadians fought against hopeless odds near Hooge will be remembered, and Canada and the Empire will be proud, for generations to come, of the men whose deeds I have mentioned and of their no less gallant comrades."

5th C.M.R. Again Organized for Battle

The remnant of the gallant Fifth took but a brief time for rest and reorganization. Within a few weeks they were again ready for battle. Those who had suffered but slight wounds rejoined their battalion and drafts from other Canadian corps, brought the force up to its old strength.

The ravages of war had been severe upon the list of officers and many changes were necessary in consequences.

A few Eastern Townships names remained in the list. Major D. C. Draper, D.S.O., became lieutenant-colonel and commander of the battalion. The other officers who had trained at Sherbrooke and who continued with the battalion after the third battle of Ypres were Capt. W. Rhodes, Adjutant Capt. E. Gill, Capt. G. D. Bishop, Capt. C. W. Hewson (afterwards wounded), Capt. E. A. Robertson, (P.M.) Capt. A. A. Tritsch (Q.M.), Lieut. E. N. Chauvin, Lieut. Campbell (afterwards killed in action), Lieut. H. H. Cotton, while sergeants Gray, Eaton, Lewis and Gifford were promoted and received commissions.

List of Honors

A number of honors were distributed among members of the battalion for conspicuous gallantry in the battle of June 2nd and 3rd, the list being as follows :

Distinguished Service Order—Major, now Lt.-Col. D. C. Draper.

Military Cross—Capt. C. W. Hewson, Capt. W. Rhoades, Lieut. G. R. Barnes.

Distinguished Conduct Medal—C.S.M., Geo. Gill; C.S.M., F. Hughes; Corp. H. B. Walton, Pte. J. E. Brayley, Pte. A. E. Brown, Lieut. Harry R. Gifford.

Military Medal—Sgt. T. E. Roe (since reported dead),

Corp. R. D. Mess, Corp. S. G. Semple, Pte. S. B. Reddin, Lance-Corp. W. G. Cuttle, Pte. C. P. Boutilier, Sergt. William J. King.

An Eastern Townships Tribute

The feelings of the people of the Eastern Townships in connection with the heroic conduct of the men of the 5th C.M.R., and of Eastern Townships men in other battalions, was voiced in a resolution adopted by the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade, at Ayer's Cliff, June 29th, 1916. The resolution, which was moved in an eloquent speech by Mr. R. C. Williams, of Farnham, and seconded by Mr. E. W. Farwell, of Sherbrooke, was as follows :

"That the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade in quarterly meeting assembled, hereby place upon record their profound admiration for the heroic men of the Eastern Townships who have given up their lives in the defence of the Empire in the present stupendous struggle for liberty, justice and the Christian civilization such as is enjoyed and understood by all people owing allegiance to the British flag.

"May their names be emblazoned on our Roll of Honor in the hearts of the people of the Eastern Townships, and live from generation to generation, that their sublime heroism may be an inspiration to patriotism and devotion to the manhood of the future.

"May their memories be the choicest heritage of their families until time is no more.

"To their families and relations, we offer our heartiest sympathy in this their hour of sore bereavement and we pray Almighty God to soften their sorrow and console them with the thought that "Greater love hath no man than he who layeth down his life for his friend."

In Battle of the Somme

The Mounted Rifles in the fall of 1916 were moved from the Ypres district and joined in the allied drive on the Somme where they sustained their fine reputation won in earlier fights and made further sacrifices for the cause. They took part in the successful attack on Regina trench and gallantly contributed their part in the great drive against the German lines.

Some day the history of this gallant regiment will be written in greater detail than is possible at this time. The brave men of the Townships have maintained the best traditions of their race. The story of their deeds will be the heritage of their descendants.

117th Eastern Townships Battalion

Cap Badge
117 E. T. Battalion

The most distinctly Eastern Townships military unit organized during the war was the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion because it contained a larger proportion of Eastern Townships men than any other.

The 117th was authorized in the fall of 1915 when the call for service came most strongly to the native born young men of Canada. It was given a distinctive Eastern Townships name and officered almost wholly by Eastern Townships men. It appealed directly to native born young men of the townships and they flocked to the standard. In spite of the fact that many other corps were turning to this section for recruits, the ranks of the 117th filled rapidly. During the winter recruiting proceeded. Groups of 25 or more men went into temporary training at various points in the townships while the headquarters and the general rallying point was established at Sherbrooke.

The Officers

The 117th was organized under the following list of officers : Lt.-Col. L. J. Gilbert, O.C. ; Major W. J. Ewing, Major W. W. Dunsmore, Major J. H. Boutelle, Major A. C. Hanson, Major E. H. Bowen, Capt. V. R. Spearing, Capt. A. Whitehead, Capt. E. E. Locke, Capt. B. W. Brock, Capt. Thos. Irving, Capt. W. H. Moorhead, (Chaplain); Capt. T. A. McCallum, Capt. R. Bartholomew, Capt. J. E. Smith, Lieut. T. Farnsworth, Lieut. J. St. G. Hall, Lieut. W. S. McCutcheon, Lieut. H. Edney, Lieut. D. Robertson, Lieut. G. Cook, Lieut. G. H. Hamilton, Lieut. W. S. Bailey, Lieut. M. Bready, Lieut. G. E. Morris, Lieut. J. E. Wilkins, Lieut. J. G. Pope, Lieut. R. D. Farley, Lieut. G. Planche, Lieut. C. Watt, Lieut. W. E. McIver, Lieut. J. Owen Jones, Lieut. W. S. Fry, Lieut. R. S. Tate, Lieut. E. C. Irvine, Lieut. A. G. Johnston, Lieut. D. E. Stewart, Lieut. H. G. Cowling, Lieut. T. S. C. Sanders, Lieut. D. R. Smith, Lieut. Goff Penny.

Eastern Townships Officers in Overseas Service

Lieut.-Col. L. J. Gilbert, O.C. 117th E. T. Battalion

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Ewing, Second in Command 117th E.T. Battalion

Lieut.-Col. J. H. Boutelle of the 117th E. T. Battalion

Capt. the Rev. W. H. Moorhead, Chaplain 117th E.T. Battalion

By May, 1916, the battalion had practically attained full strength. Some eight hundred were encamped on the Exhibition grounds in Sherbrooke while small detachments continued training at outside towns. In the latter part of May the Battalion entrained for St. Johns, Que., going into barracks lately occupied by the Grenadier Guards. This was a step towards Valcartier and made room at Sherbrooke for the 178th E. T. French-Canadian battalion which had been previously recruiting at Victoriaville.

The march through the city from the camp to the C.P.R. station gave the public the last opportunity to view the splendid body of men who had been marshalled from all parts of the townships to fight for the cause of liberty. Sturdy lads from the farm and young men from the offices, in their khaki-clad raiment, in full marching order, headed by the regimental band and led by Colonel Gilbert on his white charger, swung through the streets with the steady step of veterans. They were leaving their homes and loved ones for the uncertainties of the battle field, but those who lined the sidewalks knew that in whatever position they might be placed they would give a good account of themselves and uphold the honor of the section of Canada they were to represent especially in the great conflict.

Colors Presented

An interesting incident in connection with the departure of the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion was the presentation of a magnificent set of colors from the people of the Townships. The presentation was organized by the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade, Mr. E. W. Farwell acting as chairman of the special committee in this connection. Some three thousand citizens, representing almost every town and village and rural community in the Eastern Townships subscribed to the special address presented on the occasion. The presentation took place at His Majesty's Theatre, Sherbrooke, Monday evening, May 29th, following a concert given by talent from the battalion. His Lordship, Bishop Williams, of Quebec, was present to consecrate the colors; the ceremony prescribed in military ritual being followed.

Address From Eastern Townships Citizens

After the colors had been dedicated, Mr. V. E. Morrill, President of the Associated Boards of Trade, received the King's Colors from the senior Major, Major Ewing, and the Regimental colors from Major Dunsmore, the junior Major, and handed them to Lieutenants Stewart and Edney, the senior and junior lieutenants, respectively. He then presented Col. Gilbert with a handsome volume bound in morocco containing an address signed by nearly 3000 residents of all parts of the Townships, a portrait of the officers and a number of Eastern Townships views. The address was as follows :

"To Lieut.-Col. Gilbert, Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers and Men of the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion.

"Soldiers of the Eastern Townships :

"We, the undersigned, have all viewed, with special interest, the organization of the 117th Battalion, and have noted with pride and satisfaction the rallying of the vigorous loyal sons of the townships to the banners of this Eastern Townships Corps.

"Your faces are already turned toward the battle line beyond the seas. You are anxious to join the khaki clad legions who have gone before, and to strike your blow in defence of your Canadian homes, for the preservation of the Empire, and, indeed, on behalf of human liberty throughout the world.

"The conduct of Canadian soldiers in France and Flanders has already shed undying lustre upon their native land, and won for themselves imperishable fame. Men of the Eastern Townships, and they are in almost every corps, have never been found wanting in the test of valor.

"In name and composition, you will go forth as a distinct Eastern Townships Battalion, and will always be directly associated with your own section of Canada. Your career will be followed with the keenest interest.

"The prayers and the thoughts of the people of the Eastern Townships will be ever with you. There is little that we can offer in a tangible form. We ask you, however, to accept these Colors as a permanent reminder of our constant interest in your welfare. May the justice of your cause and the banners under which you fight be your inspiration in the days of strenuous service. And, when you return, upon these Colors will be inscribed the record of your deeds in battle, for yourselves a reminder of glorious memories, for your friends a priceless treasure, for your children and your children's children their proudest heritage.

"The people of the Eastern Townships wish you Godspeed as you go forth upon your glorious mission."

Col. Gilbert's Reply

Col. Gilbert received the volume amid loud cheering and replied as follows :

"My Lord Bishop, Mr. Morrill, President of the Associated Boards of Trade of the Eastern Townships, Ladies and Gentlemen :

"In the name of the officers, Non-Commissioned Officers, and men of the 117th E. T. Battalion, I desire, tonight, to thank, in the heartiest manner, the people of the Eastern Townships, through your Associated Boards of 117th Eastern Townships Battalion Being Inspected at Valcartier Before Their Departure Overseas.

Trade, for the Colors that have just been presented to our Battalion, accompanied by your address. I appreciate in a manner which words cannot express, the thoughtfulness of the people of the Eastern Townships in making this most suitable gift. I feel truly proud, as an Eastern Townships man, to have the high honor of commanding a battalion that is peculiarly Eastern Townships in its composition, and it shall be my one determination, and the determination of the men under my command, to carry the Colors, you have so thoughtfully given us, to victory. Wherever duty calls, I trust, there will be found the boys from the Eastern Townships, and when the boys of your own battalion come marching home, carrying, we hope, the Colors you have given us tonight, we wish for no grander words to be inscribed across them than the words "These banners were carried by a battalion that always tried to do its duty."

"I have also My Lord Bishop of Quebec, to thank your Lordship for coming here tonight, to consecrate and set apart these Colors. We will carry them not only as Soldiers of King, but as Soldiers of the KING of kings.

"I also thank, with all my heart, the people of the Eastern Townships, for the ever-increasing interest they are taking in the Battalion. It is and will ever be a source of great inspiration to us to know that the thoughts and good wishes of the people of this part of our Dominion are with us.

"And too, I thank you who are here, tonight, for coming once more to wish us God-speed. Your hearts will, I know, go with us, and while things may seem dark at times yet as you have heard the boys sing tonight :

"There's a silver lining to the dark cloud shining, Turn the dark cloud inside out till the boys COME HOME."

Col. Gilbert's speech drew forth a great outburst of cheering. On the order of their commanding officer the guard presented arms, the general salute was given and the vast audience sang the National Anthem. The representatives of the Boards of Trade who accompanied the president of the Associated Boards on the platform were: E. W. Farwell, (Sherbrooke); R. C. Wilkins (Farnham); P. C. Duboyce (Richmond); A. A. Woodman (Coaticook); J. E. Poutre, D. J. Steele, J. J. Fitzgerald, and W. M. Hillhouse (Sherbrooke.)

Victrolas From Sherbrooke Board of Trade

On the same occasion, a presentation of Victrolas was made to the battalion from the citizens of Sherbrooke, through the Sherbrooke Board of Trade accompanied by the following address :

Sherbrooke, May 29, 1916.

To Lt.-Col. L. J. Gilbert, O.C., and to the Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers, and Men of the 117th Eastern Townships Overseas Battalion :

Sirs :—The citizens of Sherbrooke eagerly grasp the opportunity afforded by your visit here this evening to give expression to the earnest feelings they have in your regard.

From the beginning of December to the beginning of May, while we were particularly favored with your presence in our midst, we watched your progress from day to day with the keenest interest. When, a few weeks ago, you marched away from us we could not help but remark with complete satisfaction the splendid results which had attended your close application to able training during those few months.

From what we have seen we know that when the firing line is reached, your valor and your skill will swell the glory of our country, our townships and our city.

Please accept the humble gift of Victrolas which the citizens of Sherbrooke are offering through their Board of Trade to each Company of the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion. We hope that every one of you will regard them as a souvenir of the interest, the esteem, the pride and the love which the citizens of Sherbrooke feel for the noble sons of the Eastern Townships.

We wish you Godspeed.

SHERBROOKE BOARD OF TRADE,

D. J. Steele, President.
John J. Fitzgerald, Secretary.

The Battalion Band

At an earlier date the Battalion had received a gift of a very fine set of band instruments from the firm of Messrs. H. C. Wilson & Sons, Sherbrooke. This enabled the battalion to organize an efficient band as there was ample talent.

At Valcartier

The Battalion proceeded from St. Johns to Valcartier camp early in June and continued there in training until July 12th, when it entrained at Levis for Halifax, proceeding thence overseas. The 117th Battalion was regarded as one of the best corps that left the shores of Canada during the year.

The 117th Overseas

On arrival in England, the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion went into training at Bramshot Camp. Owing to the losses sustained by Canadian divisions in France, it became necessary to break up the organization of the battalions arriving in England and send them forward as reinforcements for various corps at the front. The 117th, therefore, was unable to proceed to the firing line as a unit. In companies or platoons they separated from their own battalion in the fall of 1916 and took the places assigned them in various corps in France or about to leave for the front. A portion of the 117th went forward in November to reinforce the 5th C.M.R., and there joined their brothers from the Eastern Townships who had escaped death in the fierce battles of the past year.

The 117th Battalion, following these changes, established its headquarters at Seaford, Eng., serving as a reinforcing battalion through which troops passed on their way to the units at the front. In January, 1917, it merged with the 23rd Battalion, as reserve, with headquarters at Shoreham, Sussex, England. By this time nearly all of the original 117th had crossed the channel and taken their places as reinforcements with the veteran fighting units at the front.

The people of the Eastern Townships feel a just pride in the splendid body of men sent forward to the Motherland under the banner of the 117th Battalion. Wherever and whenever called upon they will give a good account of themselves as have their brothers who preceded them to the battle-scarred land of France.

35th Battery

During the summer of 1915, Major R. H. Fletcher, of Sherbrooke, received commission to organize the 35th Battery with headquarters at Sherbrooke and the unit was quickly recruited. Major Fletcher enlisted among his officers, Capt. H. B. Miller, Lieuts. Eldridge Cate, Lieut. McLean and Lieut.

Band of 117th Eastern Townships Battalion.

Fleet. The battery after training in Canada through the early winter proceeded overseas in 1916. It passed most creditably the tests made on its arrival in England and after a very brief period of training there was sent to France and assigned to the Somme front where the guns of this gallant Sherbrooke unit helped to batter the German lines. The 35th did not escape paying the price of the victorious advance and in the casualty lists the names of Major Fletcher and Lieut. Cate appeared during the second week of November, 1916, but fortunately their wounds were not of a serious nature and they soon rejoined their battery.

178th Overseas Battalion

Lieut.-Col. R. de la Bruere Girouard saw active service during the first year of the war as an officer of the famous 22nd Battalion. He himself was wounded in the fierce engagements in which this corps participated and returning to Canada conceived the idea of raising a French-Canadian battalion. The 178th known locally as the 178th Eastern Townships French-Canadian Battalion, was the result. Recruiting was begun in Montreal and continued at Arthabaska, Drummondville and Sherbrooke. The battalion occupied quarters on the exhibition grounds at Sherbrooke during June and a part of July and was then mobilized at Valcartier where it was later merged with another battalion. Col. Girouard has done splendid service in recruiting work in the province and it has been stated that no less than eighteen hundred men joined the colors as a result of his efforts.

Eastern Townships Does Its Part

The Eastern Townships has proven the most fruitful ground for recruiting in the province and Eastern Townships men have found their way into every corps organized in Quebec. Aside from those already referred to whose headquarters during the period of organization were in the townships, many Eastern Townships men went overseas with the following military units : Princess Patricias, 5th, 3rd, 4th, 10th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 23rd, 24th, 27th, 43rd, 48th, 49th, 60th, 73rd, 87th, 98th, 169th, 171st, 245th, 2 C.F.A., 22nd Battery, University Corps, and many others.

Among the officers from the Eastern Townships who responded to the call of the Empire in the above corps or in others not having headquarters here were the following : Brigadier-General F. O. W. Loomis, Lieut.-Col. E. B. Worthington, Lieut.-Col. J. J. Penhale, Lieut.-Col. F. C. Bowen, Lieut.-Col. J. Bruce Payne, Major C. K. Fraser, Capt. H. G. Tate, Capt. M. K. Adams, Capt. Kenneth Kennedy, Capt. Harry Sampson, Capt. E. J. Griffith, Capt. G. T. Dodge, Capt. Basil Irwin, Capt. R. M. Griffith, (Montreal staff), Capt. V. A. Olivier, Lieut. Palmer, Lieut. Parkes, Lieut. Forbes Hale, Lieut. Mackinnon, Lieut. Carroll Cate, Lieut. Eldridge Cate, Lieut. Albert Webster, Lieut. Routledge, Lieut. R. Somers, Lieut. R. Dupuy, Lieut. R. Macfarlane, Lieut. Hugo, Lieut. Tyndall, Lieut. E. C. Fraser.

Nor has service for the cause beyond the seas, so far as the Eastern Townships is concerned, been confined to the men. Equally brave and devoted, and deserving of no less recognition, are a number of Eastern Townships young women who are engaged in Red Cross or other hospital work. Among these are Miss Rose Griffith, Sherbrooke, at the American Hospital, near Paris; Miss E. F. Jones, service in Serbia, Greece and Belgium; Miss Lilian Davignon (Knowlton) ; Miss Baird (Scotstown) ; Miss Day, service in Malta; Miss Nicol, Miss Johnson, Miss Armitage, Miss Mary Gwynn, Miss Etchenberg, Miss Olive Palmer, Sherbrooke.

The Eastern Townships has, also, sent its quota of medical men who have rendered and many of them are still doing splendid work in repairing, among the heroic soldiery, the ravages of war.

This list includes Dr. (Major) C. J. Edgar, North Hatley, services in England and France and more particularly in the East in connection with the Dardannelles expedition; Dr. (Colonel) E. J. Williams, France and latterly at Salonika and the island of Lemnos; Dr. Parisseau, in France; Dr. Gerald Griffith, England and India; Dr. F. H. Bradley, dental service; Dr. Herbert McCrea, Dr. (Capt.) Allen Edgar Thompson, Dr. Geo. E. Millette, Dr. (Capt.) B. W. Brock and others.

A number of the overseas corps have drawn their chaplains from Eastern Township clergy, among those changing the cloth of the pulpit for the khaki of the army being Rev. W. H. Moorhead, Rev. Channell Hepburn, Rev. Belfort and Rev. Harold Laws, all with the rank of captain, and major, the Rev. A. H. Moore, as chief recruiting officer in the townships.

The Women of the Eastern Townships

If the chief honor in this great struggle for the preservation of human liberty in the world belongs to the khaki clad soldiers in the firing line, the next and almost equal tribute must assuredly go to the women, the workers, the daughters, the sweethearts and all who, because of their sex being unable to don the uniform and march away to war, have consecrated themselves so entirely to the service of their country at home.

In the Eastern Townships the spectacle in this regard has been quite as inspiring as in any part of Canada or elsewhere. Space permits only a general reference in this volume. No community has been without its Red Cross or Patriotic Society and in the larger centres such as Sherbrooke there are such co-operating organizations as the Daughters of the Empire, Belgian, Serbian, Polish and Prisoners of War relief committees, and numerous contributory organizations all working incessantly for the great patriotic cause. Many thousand dollars have been raised and tons upon tons of supplies for the soldiers at the front and the hospitals have been prepared and forwarded. The labor involved cannot be estimated and the devoted workers seek no recognition, being content with the thought that they are doing their bit according to their opportunities. The homes in the remote rural communities as well as in the towns and cities have participated in this great service. Socks have been knit, hospital supplies have been made and the call for service has been answered with a self-sacrifice that is not excelled by the fighting men themselves.

All honor to Eastern Townships women in this great world crisis. Courageously have they faced the terrible anxieties of the time. Thousands of mothers and sisters with thoughts far away with loved ones beyond the seas are laboring on at home doing such tasks for the national service as comes within their reach.

The great work of Canadian women has attracted attention not only in the Old Country but in neutral nations. A writer in the New York World, after reviewing at length the services of Canadian women for the cause, concludes with this summary :

"Equally efficient to meet the demands of war at home and the front have been Canadian women. Vast sums of money have they helped to collect. By ingenuity of resource and novel plans they have kept the money flowing into ever-needy and ever-empty coffers. Hospital staffs in strange lands they have manned with expert nurses. Men's places in the office and the counting-houses they have assumed calmly, and the duties have been efficiently performed. The liquor-traffic has felt their might, and in half of the whole Dominion the open bars have been swept away. To suffering soldiers and foreign non-combatants have they rushed colossal mountains of food and clothing-supplies. Fresh fruit they have canned in thousands of quarts for the fighters at the front. And at home, eternally vigilant, always alert to fight, they have beaten food-combines and driven prices down. Even into the great factories, where come the things of death, they have gone and worked and become experts in the art of munition-making. In no single thing have they failed ; no single call have they left unanswered. Greatly they have striven and greatly achieved."

Precious, indeed, is Liberty. The right of the people to live their lives free from the heel of oppression has never been easily won. All through the ages rivers of blood have been flowing for the sacred cause of human liberty. Its defense has often been as costly as the struggle for its attainment, but, the cause has always been worthy of the sacrifice.

The Eastern Townships, in common with every community of the far flung Empire, mourns its heroic dead. Amid the storm of battle, their souls have passed from earthly tribulation. And they are not dead for they will for ever live in the memories of their grateful countrymen who, through their sacrifice, will continue to enjoy the liberty guaranteed by the flag they have shed their blood to defend.

The touching lines of Dr. R. Stanley Weir, penned in memory of one Eastern Townships lad (Lieut. Allan Rutledge) may be taken as in memoriam of all the brave boys from the townships who have made the supreme sacrifice for their country's cause.

Red for the blood his body shed,
  White for his body's soul,
Blue for the heaven above his head
  That shrines the Muster-roll.
Cheers for the old Red, White and Blue ;
And cheers, dear lad, brave lad, for you !
  Cheers !

Red for the blood his body shed,
  White for the shining scroll
That lists him with the undying Dead
  Forever great of soul.
Cheers for the old Red, White and Blue ;
But tears, dear lad, brave lad, for you.
  Tears.
